LOCAL AND GENERAL

V. Fisher was a visitor at his old home in Cochrane on Tuesday.

C. O. Davis was a business visitor in Calgary on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cooper, of Calgary, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Davis.

BORN—Monday, Oct. 2nd, 1911, at Crossfield, to Mr. and Mrs. J. Eagleson, a son.

W. B. Edward shipped a carload of calves on Monday, which were purchased from P. E. Rickard.

Jas. McCammon, of Kingston, Ont., was a guest at the home of his nephew, T. E. Elliott, this week.

The Crossfield Quadrille Club are holding their first dance in the hall to-morrow evening.

The flashing on the fire hall is being taken off and put on differently, and with luck the fire engines may be in their new home before Christmas.

The shipments of hay from the Crossfield station still continue. Some days there are as many as three and four cars sent from the yards here.

Owing to the bad weather on Monday the prairie chickens were given another day to live, but Tuesday all who went out from town report a good success.

Carpenter & Rocky M. in the large new barn for the Washington-Alberta Land Co. on Wednesday at the place just west of town. Geo. Becker has the work in hand.

Mr. Burkholder, of Calgary, was in town this week and bought a good work team from John T. Johnson, which he will take to Calgary for use on contract work there.

A large quantity of dressed meat is being shipped out of town to Calgary dealers from here by the farmers as well as well as by the local butchers, Messrs. Walsh Bros.

Now that the cold weather is approaching, the local enthusiasts should be making their arrangements for a skating rink and a hockey team that will be able to clean up the province this season.

Ontkes & Armstrong have disposed of their hardware business to Mr. McFory & Sons, of Manitoba, who will take possession next week as soon as stock is taken. No doubt these gentlemen will be accorded the same patronage as has been given the old firm by the Crossfield public.

The farmers are buying a lot of extra binders now in order to be able to harvest the crop that is laying on the ground, and the new binders are necessary in order that they can get the grain cut before the snow flies. It's a poor storm that does no one good.

A. R. Thomas has resigned his position in Doyle & Elliott's general store to accept the management of the Washington-Alberta Land Co.'s elevator. This large elevator is equipped with up-to-date rolling and grinding machinery and will fill a long felt want with the farmers of the district who can now bring their grain to town and have it chopped while they are attending to their business in town.

MOTHERS! DO YOU KNOW—

That when you put a salve onto your child's skin, it passes through the pores and enters the blood, just as surely as if you put it into the child's stomach? You would not put a coarse mass of animal fat, colored by various mineral poisons (such as many crude salves are) into your child's blood by way of the stomach? Then why do so by way of the pores? Take no risk. Use a salve the purest of essences provided in ZAM-BUK. ZAM-BUK contains no trace of any animal oil or fat, and no poisonous mineral coloring matter. From start to finish it is purely herbal.

It will heal sores, ulcers, abscesses, eruptions, various skin cuts, burns and bruises more quickly than any other known preparation. It is a little quickly stops the smarting of a sore or cut, cures piles, it cures sores and blood-poisons. It is a combination of healing powers and scientific purity. Ask those who have proved it.

All druggists and stores like those of ZAM-BUK Co., Toronto, for price.

Terrible Itching Got Little Sleep

Until Cuticura Remedies Cured Him

Those who have suffered long and hopelessly from torturing skin eruptions will read with interest this letter from Mr. T. Williams, 115 Pacific Ave., Winnipeg (dated Jan. 14, 1913). "The Cuticura Remedies certainly did work for me, and I am thankful that there is such a remedy, and that I tried it. About three months ago a terrible itching commenced on my body. I could not understand it. It gradually grew worse and covered a large portion of my body. There was also a slight eruption of the skin, sort of a rash. I suffered greatly with the itching and at night time I had little sleep. I tried one or two remedies which did no good, and then I tried Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Red-cream. In about ten days I was completely cured."

For more than a generation the Cuticura Remedies have afforded the speediest and most economical treatment for itching, burning, scaly and bleeding skin and many kinds of young and old. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, with 32-p. book on the care of the skin and treatment of its affections, send a postal to the Foster Drug & Chem. TOMB IN A TOWER.

A Remarkable Edition, the Whim of a Wealthy Tea Planter.

Near the well known seaport of Southampton, England, there is a remarkable edifice known as Petersen's tower. The erection is all the more singular because it marks the burying place of a certain John Petersen, a wealthy tea planter.

The man appears to have been rather an eccentric individual, and in order to prove to the world his belief in concrete as a building material set about the construction of this great tower. The building took many years to complete, but is entirely of concrete and by the time the final layers had been placed had reached an altitude of more than 300 feet. It is about forty years since the tower was erected, and its present condition is certainly a justification of the faith of the builder.

As has been indicated, Petersen left instructions that his body should be placed under the tower, and this was accordingly carried out. Another desire that the chamber at the summit should contain a light was deferred by the firm stand which Trinity House, the lighthouse authority, took on the matter. Such an illumination would have been visible for miles out to sea and would naturally have proved very misleading to sailors.—Scientific American.

PULLING THE COURT'S LEG.

A Practice the English Judge Did His Best to Discourage.

The following remarkable judgment was delivered some years ago by a magistrate in one of the English colonies:

"Pachus is hereby charged with having on the 11th of January followed the court on its rising and while said court was in the act of mounting into its buggy came from behind and, seizing the court's dangling leg, the other foot being on the step, forcibly pulled back the court, frightened the horse and nearly caused an accident. The reason alleged for this by accused is that he wanted to read the result of an application of his. The practice by petitioners of pulling the courts by the legs is one that should be discouraged. Accused only says he is a poor man, admitting the truth of the complaint. He is sentenced to one month's rigorous imprisonment."

Struck by lightning, the lieutenant governor of the province on reading this verdict said: "I am not going to read this verdict myself nor the peculiar terminology in which it was couched, from minds running in legal grooves."

Bears and Its Bears.

Berne is surrounded by the blue green river Aare, and seven bridges cross into the picturesque suburbs; the view of the Alps is one of the finest to be had. One may walk through the streets of Berne, witness an American visitor, and find constant surprises. The odd fontainas will be observed with interest. They were mostly built in the sixteenth century. There are a number of public institutions worth a visit—the historical museum, museum of industry and the museum of art and nature; several libraries and the public gardens, which contain the great bear pit so universally known, to say nothing of the quaint gates and the headquarters of the Postal union. Bears have been kept on public exhibition in Berne since 1480 in commemoration of the killing of one by the Duke of Zähringen on the site of the tower.

When the Guitar Arrived.

The advent of the English guitar in the eighteenth century caused the disappearance of lutes, psalms and similar wire string instruments, or, rather, it supplanted them, for, owing to the use of fingers, the English guitar, though smaller, could be used for accompanying the voice as well as for solo performances. The instrument, which had a decorative appearance, is frequently depicted in the portraiture of the eighteenth century. It was made in various sizes, two of the smaller to be managed by young ladies from seven to ten years of age, the other by ladies of ten and upward."

Fish Delusions.

There are two popular delusions about fish—one that they cannot live out of water and the other that they can live in any pure water, the food supply taking care of itself. As a matter of fact, there are fish in Africa which, having no gills, live in absolutely dry rivers for a portion of the year, have developed lungs, while in many an amateur's aquarium fish cannot live in the water provided owing to lack of food.

Jamaica.

Jamaica is more populous in proportion to its size than Spain, Turkey, Russia and some other European countries. The white people, however, are outnumbered by the black and colored by nearly fifty to one.

Minard's Liniment cures burns, etc.

Every time a new barber comes to town all the bald men drop in to see if he can't suggest something that will make hair grow.

The reason to many men get married is because they are too tender-hearted to refuse.

Simple and Sure—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is so simple in application that a child can understand the instructions. Used as a liniment the only direction is to rub, and when used as a dressing to apply. The directions are so plain and unmistakable that they are readily understood by young or old.

Note and Comment

Can Italy make a meal of Turkey without Greece?

The weather man under the new government is having some difficulty in getting the weather under his control.

Italy has started out to get their Thanksgiving Turkey rather early, and the Young Turks especially object to being taken.

The Chronicle may be independent, but the editor is not and he needs that dollar for your subscription very badly. Please dig up.

We have every reason to believe that Crossfield will be lighted with electricity before the next issue appears. Carstairs is again behind.

Readers of the daily papers should brush up on their geography in order to know what they are reading about when they are reading the war accounts between Italy and Turkey.

The daily papers to the south of us are busy making the new Cabinet for the Conservative Government. Every man is bound to find his vocation in life some time, and no doubt cabinet making is more in their line than editing a daily paper.

We are lead to believe that the coal strike which has lasted so long is about to be settled, and we are also told that the miners will be given a few slight concessions and that the price of coal will be advanced, which means that the consumers will have to pay these slight concessions, and the mine owners will continue to get their rake off.

Carstairs had a fire the other day and the men who are at the head of affairs in that town at once got their heads together and made up their several minds that Carstairs needed more fire protection and a committee was appointed to look up the cost of installing a sort of water system and to get the price of an engine to pump the water, but we dare say that they have all forgotten about it by now. Crossfield has a fire brigade. Keep it dark, that's what they are doing with the brigade.

Just to show you what a nice peaceable town Crossfield is we might tell you that Crossfield has no village constable and there is no R.N.W.M.P. station within thirty miles. Now there is a place called Cochrane down south-west of Crossfield which boasts of a Member of Parliament, three J. P.'s, three churches, a Mounted police and a village constable, a license inspector, and last but not least a paper that chronicles the proceedings of Police Court, which sits at least once a week. We have been in Crossfield for some months but have heard of only two cases being held in this town in all that time.

Treating The Forest
As A Crop

The progress of the Conservation policy of Canada, as applied to forest resources, depends more upon the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior than upon any other organization. Upon the technical knowledge and executive ability of the officers of the Forestry Branch depends the future of the forests on 16,000,000 acres of Dominion Forest Reserves, as well as upon the large area of non-agricultural forest land in Western Canada, which for the good of the country may yet be set aside as permanent forest reserves.

In addition to looking after Dominion lands the Forestry Branch is now being asked by Eastern land owners to furnish advice as to the best means of securing at the earliest date a profitable crop of timber on waste land or wood-lots. The proper administration of forest lands requires a special knowledge of the trees best adapted to each region, of their uses, and of the markets. Further there is needed knowledge of the habits of all trees, especially of the merchantable species, so that it may be known how rapidly they grow, how they produce their seed, when and under what conditions the seed germinates, and in what way the seedlings and young trees are affected by their surroundings. Such knowledge is gained only by long study and experience. In order that the new Rocky Mountain Forest Reserve may be administered according to the latest scientific knowledge and the best experience, the Forestry Branch is now making detailed studies of the habits of the merchantable species of trees on the Eastern slope of the Rockies in Alberta and has sent one of the men in charge of the work to study the systems of forest management practiced during the past few years by the highly developed United States Forest Service in the National Forests of Montana. The United States foresters have spent large sums of money and availed themselves of the experience of many men in developing plans of lumbering which do not inconvenience the forester and the Canadian Forestry Branch intends to benefit largely by their experience.

Correspondence

To the Editor:

Dear Sir:—

If you can spare your valuable time and space, I would ask you to kindly announce for me (although I feel sorry to have to have to do so) that I will have to discontinue my work with the "Boy Scouts" until at least after the end of this year.

The reason for this step will explain itself in due time. I feel it my duty to do so, not from any selfish motive, and I have confidence in the citizens of Crossfield who know me, that they will not judge me wrongly.

My heart is still and will be with this great work, and I hope when the time come (when I will be able and at liberty) to take it up again, that every citizen will do what so ever he can to help along this good cause, and my promise is "Not to be found wanting."

Sincerely Yours,
G. W. BOYCE.

WAR ON IN EUROPE

ITALY HAS DECLARED WAR ON TURKEY

Turkey Has a Large Standing Army But the Italian Fleet is Much Superior to That of Turkey—Fights Opened With the Sinking of a Turkish Destroyer Before Tripoli—Tripoli is the Storm Centre.

Saloniki, European Turkey. —An Italian cruiser has destroyed a Turkish destroyer in the harbor of Broussa, in Epirus and landed troops. The Turkish authorities are sending a battalion of troops to Prevesa.

Following is the text of the declaration which the Italian Charge handed to the Porte:

"The Italian ambassador carrying the orders of the king has the honor to notify you that the delay accorded by the royal government to the Porte, with relation to certain necessary measures has expired, without satisfactory reply reaching the Italian government. The lack of this only confirms the bad will, or want of power, of which the Turkish government and authorities have given such frequent proof, and especially with regard to the rights and interests of Italians in Tripoli and Cyrenaica. The royal government is obliged, therefore, to safeguard its rights and interests as well as honor and dignity by all means at its disposal, and events which follow can only be regarded as the necessary consequence of conduct followed so long by the Turkish authorities."

"The relations of peace and friendship being therefore interrupted between the two countries Italy considers herself from this moment in a state of war with Turkey, and she reserves the honor to make known to Your Highness that passports will be placed at the disposal of the Italian consuls and faïres at Rome and I beg Your Highness to hand passport to the representatives of the Italian government."

"Ottoman subjects may continue to reside in Italy without fear of an attack upon their persons, property, or affairs."

London.—State of war exists between Italy and Turkey and hostilities have begun.

No sooner had the limit fixed in the ultimatum expired than, ignoring Turkey's conciliatory request for a period of delay, Italy declared war. The Turkish representatives were handed their passports. The Turkish commander at Tripoli was asked to surrender the town. He declined, and the Italian forces immediately occupied Tripoli and Benghazi.

Apparently the Turkish resistance, but this is only an assumption, as immediately after landing the Italian seized the city. From the hour of their landing no message of any kind has been received from Tripoli, and the dispatch sent there place remained unanswered. Furthermore, a Constantinople dispatch announcing Italian occupation of Tripoli makes no mention of resistance, and says that a mere patrol of the governor would be in the city with the Turkish announced policy. The Turkish cabinet, which held a session this time (yesterday) resumed as soon as war was declared, and a new ministry was formed under Said Pasha, the former able minister, Mahomed Shet Pasha, was retained.

Constantinople.—The Turkish minister, according to the reports current here recently, has received a despatch from the late Turkish minister, who has resumed command of the troops at Tripoli, stating that the Italian had disembarked, and that he succeeded in sinking the first two barges. It is rumored also that Italian forces have landed both at Tripoli and Benghazi.

The Turkish cabinet has resigned. Said Pasha, assistant minister of grand vizier, and Kiamil Pasha, chief of foreign minister, Mahomed Shet Pasha continues as minister of war. The Italian charge d'affaires, Signor Dimerino, handed the Porte this afternoon a communication intimating the intention of Italy to proceed with the measures outlined in the ultimatum. This was tantamount to a declaration of war, and as a state of war would give Italy greater freedom of action in the Turkish waters, there is much apprehension regarding the Turkish war vessels at present steaming in the direction of the Dardanelles.

The British ambassador here is concerned for the British officers with the Turkish squadron, and is instructing their government for their recall. The question of the protection of Italian subjects in Turkey is engaging the attention of Italian authorities. It is thought that a request will be made to Germany to undertake the protection of the Italian consulates. The Italian emblem of the Grand Cross of St. Stephen was sent from the embassy, the consulate, and schools with a view to preventing outbreaks.

The newspapers publish the statement that Italian battleships have appeared off Smyrna and Saloniki.

"Jane," said a lady rather sharply to her cook, "I must insist that you keep better hours and be a less than company in the kitchen at night. Last night you kept me from sleeping because of your snoring and laughing of one of your woman friends."

"Yes, mum, I know," was the apologetic reply, "but this wouldn't help it. I was telling her how you tried to make a cake one day."

BUILDING PERMITS INCREASE

Figures For Thirty Canadian Cities

For August Are Larger By 43.4 Per Cent.

Toronto.—Building permits taken out by 30 Canadian cities for August show the Financial Post, show a total of $11,796,411, compared with $8,349,254 for August, 1910, an increase of 41.4 per cent.

Seven cities, including Fort William, Leithbridge and Moose Jaw, report a decrease. In percentage of increase, Medicine Hat is far in the lead, with 724 per cent. Nelson, B.C., taking second place with 461 per cent, and Edmonton following with 366 per cent. Five other cities—Stratford, Kingston, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria—show an increase in excess of 100 per cent.

In actual figures of increase, Vancouver takes first place with $781,853, Calgary coming next with $483,900. Edmonton follows with $477,540, the next city being Winnipeg, with $446,200, and Montreal with $415,620. The tabulated comparative list is as follows:

GAS LIGHTING SCHEME

Western Town Object to Company's Demand for Twenty Year Franchise

High River, Alta.—Representatives of towns of the Calgary-Macleod line of railway met here recently to discuss a proposition made by the Western Alberta Gas and Electric Co., Ltd., to furnish the towns with natural gas from their wells at Bow Island. The towns from outside points were City Engineer Altham, of Macleod; Mayor Smith and Councillor Nichols, of Grangum; Councillors Holmes and James, of Okotoks; Mayor Ramsay, of Nanton; Councillors Knowles and Daggett, of Calgary; Mayor Wallace, of Bow; Councillors Clark, Mack, and Councillor Young and Partridge, of Nelson. Messrs Smith and Stead were High River representatives. Mr. J. McEwen, of Calgary, represented the company.

A main exception was taken to the company's request for twenty years' exclusive franchise. Minor concessions were made, but the town of McEwen was immovable. The towns mentioned will submit the question to their ratepayers by ballot. As Calgary has already accepted the company's offer of 20 cent gas, the towns of Grangum and the smaller towns have their hands tied to some extent. If the by-law carries, High River will probably have natural gas for light, heat, and power by September next.

STOLEN TEAM OF HORSES

Greek Arrested When He Attempts To Sell Team Very Cheap

Portage la Prairie, A.—A Greek, giving his name as John Golden, was arrested on suspicion recently at Portage la Prairie by Constable Cook of the provincial police department. Golden was endeavoring to sell a good-looking team of horses for $25 and had just about completed the sale when he was arrested. He claimed that horses were his, but it is thought he stole the team somewhere.

Golden stated that he was a householder living near Lake Winnipeg, but would give no further or more definite information concerning himself.

The horses looked very much like a heavy team, and were attached to a buggy without a top. One of the horses was an iron grey weighing about 900 pounds. He had the brand "C" on its left shoulder, and the other was a light bay and about the same size. Both horses were shod in iron. An imitation buffalo robe was in the rig.

Stolen Gold Recovered

Iditarod, Alaska.—The $35,000 in gold dust stolen from George Friend and various parties in Iditarod, Alaska, was recovered soon after the robbery by a posse which chased the thieves.

The reward of $5,000 offered for the capture of the robbers was left standing, and after they had been followed by hundreds of miners continued to hunt for the criminals.

TWO MILLION DOLLARS

WESTERN FARMERS' WILL REALIZE THIS AMOUNT

Although the Grain as a Whole Will Grade Slightly Lower Than in Former Years, It Will Bring Good Money, the Farmers' Weather Conditions Responsible For The State of the Crop.

Calgary.—"The grain is going to grade lower than usual, but it will bring good money to the farmers," said Mr. Brown. "Although the adverse weather and other conditions have effected its quality in the three central provinces, the crop is so immense and the prices what is commanding are so good that the farmers will realize about $200,000,000 for their crops this year."

Previous to receiving his present appointment Mr. Brown was for several years Chief Inspector in the head office of the bank, and during that time made several trips to Calgary. However he has not visited this city for three years until he made his present trip, and he expressed surprise and gratification at the favorable crop. He said it was his last visit.

"Despite the knowledge we had at the head office of the growth of the crop, and the West, was surprised," he said discussing this matter. "We always expected to see great changes in the crop, but the West, but Calgary has gone ahead much more rapidly than even expected."

Conditions in the West generally Mr. Brown describes as "being as good as the West," and he said that their crop reports received at the head office of the bank showed that the crop was in the best of the Alberta as a whole were not unfavorable.

Although he had no announcement to make regarding the movements of the bank with which he is connected in the north trip to the grain, he said that this province's crop was in the best of the bank of Commerce always held the crop in the best of the development of this country, and was always extending their business and opening branches as fast as they were able to do.

CANADIAN EXPLORER IS SAFE

Captain Bernier and His Crew After 18 Months Absence Returns From Arctic Lands

Quebec, Que.—Captain Bernier, the Canadian explorer, returned to his home, the Arctic, after his last expedition, recently, and gave a brief account of his trip to the Arctic.

He left Quebec with a crew of 36 on July 1, 1910, and brought all back with him on September 25. He was in the bank's land, at the entrance of the Northwest passage, which he might have made but did not risk his ship and those on board, as the ice was the worst he had ever seen. The ship took 15 days to make one hundred and fifty miles, a large amount of the trip being made with the help of the crew.

On the return trip, Captain Bernier made four caches in order to have provisions on his return. These were at Point Barrow, Rebus Bay, Deley Lake and Winter Harbor. He had intended to winter at Admiralty inlet, but this was so blocked up that he could not get in, and he wintered at Arctic Bay, which he reached on September 10.

After they received mail from Canada on August 10, 1910, at Baffin's Bay, the party had nothing from civilization till they reached Arctic Point.

The Arctic left its winter quarters for home on July 7, 1911, and had difficulty even then in finding its way.

SMUGGLERS UNDER ARREST

Chicago Jeweller and His Wife Held in New York for Wholesale Smuggling of Diamonds

New York.—A rubber stocking and a petticoat with 25 pockets in it are the means by which Rudolph Newman, a Chicago jeweller, and his wife are alleged to have tried to smuggle diamonds and other precious stones and jewellery into the country. They arrived on the New Amsterdam, a ship of the Holland-American line, accompanied by two mail men.

Newman, when arraigned before United States Commissioner Ruse, furnished $2,000 bail, while Mrs. Newman was paroled on her own recognizance on account of her two small children. She is alleged to have smuggled diamonds and other precious stones into the country in months past.

In the rubber stocking which Newman wore, it is alleged, were a portion of his body, the Customs officials say they found a quantity of uncut diamonds and small pieces of stones, and the pockets of his wife's petticoat numerous packages of small jewellery and other articles. It is alleged that the stones to be worth about $5,000. All the jewels were seized.

It is believed that the fact that Newman was under suspicion because of his frequent trips to Europe, the gems purveyor would have remained undetected, the official said, so actually they were concealed.

RAILWAY EXTENSIONS IN NORTH

C. N. R. Railway to Athabasca Landing to Be Completed in November

Winnipeg.—That the Canadian Northern Railway to Athabasca Landing will be completed early in November was the announcement made recently at the local offices of the railway company. The company expects to run a regular passenger service this winter to the handling and freight will be handled as soon as the road is in running shape.

Up to the present all fur trade and barter with the Indians arrived in civilization over this trail and all goods and freight for the north has been laboriously transported over this portage. The territory served runs 2,000 miles north to the Arctic ocean, and it is as wide as the basin of the Mackenzie river. In the new era open up by the Canadian Northern railway, freight will now be loaded on to the steamers at Athabasca Landing and distributed in this manner to all the different trading posts throughout this vast territory. Settlers will now have and carry to the west end of the river country and their goods and chattels will be loaded on the steamers and carried to the west end of the river country, where they will be within 40 miles of the famous Peace River and the last free land. Steel will also be laid on the Peace River branch, leaving the main line at Oway, and it is expected that this line will be completed during the present season to the Pembina river. A work has also been commenced on the North Thompson section of the Kamloops line, giving employment to over 200 laborers, and work has been started on the construction of the Hudson Bay railway at Hudson Bay Junction, giving work to several hundred men.

REINDEER REACHES EDMONTON

Remarkable Shipment is Planned to Stock District of Mackenzie and Replenish Deer Teams

Edmonton, Alta.—Three carloads of Lapland reindeer from northern New Sweden, the remarkable freight which arrived in Edmonton recently on the C. N. R. from the east.

The reindeer were in three cars, and the fourth car was stocked with reindeer food, moss and grass. The reindeer were representatives of the species with which the department of the interior has planned to stock the district. The animals are to be used for carrying provisions in long reaches of the north in place of dogs.

The consignment of reindeer left Newfoundland on September 8 and arrived in Quebec on September 15. It is to be sent to the district of Mackenzie. The reindeer will be taken by rail as far as Stony Creek, sixty miles north of Edmonton, from that point they will be taken overland to Athabasca Landing.

Some of the reindeer will be well bred, and others will be the consignment in wagons. Athabasca Landing the animals will be placed in sleds and floated down the Athabasca to the mouth of the Peace river, where they will be taken to their destination. They will have travelled fully 5,000 miles by the time their journey is at an end.

SHIPMENT OF BEEF CATTLE

Owing to the Abundance of Grass Animals Are in Good Shape for Export

Calgary.—The Alberta fall export cattle shipments to the British market have started, and it is expected that the shipments this season will be heavy. H. C. McMillen, C. P. R. live stock agent, says that the cattle are in good shape for export.

He said that the cattle are in good shape for export, and that the shipments this season will be heavy. H. C. McMillen, C. P. R. live stock agent, says that the cattle are in good shape for export, and that the shipments this season will be heavy.

In the north country, owing to the fact that there will be a larger than usual amount of feed grain, a large number of cattle, which might, under other circumstances, have been shipped, will be fed through the winter and be held over for next spring's shipment.

BANK OF EGYPT HAS SUSPENDED

Could Not Procure the Cash to Meet Its Current Liabilities

London.—The Bank of Egypt, Ltd., has suspended payment. In a notice to the depositors it says that the bank cannot procure sufficient cash to meet its liabilities, and that it is unable to pay its obligations.

The bank of Egypt has been in operation since 1866 and registered as a public company with a capital of $1,500,000. R. L. Barclay is chairman of the board of directors, and Lord Rothemann is president.

From 1889 to 1909 inclusive the bank paid a dividend of 12 per cent, and 18 per cent. In July, 1910 four per cent was paid on account that year.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON 11.—FOURTH QUARTER.

FOR OCT. 8, 1911.

Text of the Lesson, Exek. xlvii, 1-12.

Memory Verse, 3—Golden Text, Rev. xiii, 17—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The prophets foretell a kingdom of peace and righteousness on this earth to follow or in connection with the restoration of Israel and their reception of Jesus Christ as their Messiah when He shall come again in power and glory. No one does this more plainly than Ezekiel in chapter xxvii.

The last eight chapters of this book describe the temple that is yet to be built and the glory that shall fill the house when He will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel forever (xlii, 1-7; xlv, 4-6). The name of the city from that day shall be, "The Lord is there." Jehovah shanah (xlvii, 1-12; xlv, 4-6). The name of the city from that day shall be, "The Lord is there." Jehovah shanah (xlvii, 1-12; xlv, 4-6).

This story of the river of life, with its tree for meat and fruit and health, and its water to the garden of Eden and the work from which it flows (Ps. xlii, 1, 2, 9), and in I Cor. x, 4, 5, "Who drink of that spiritual rock that followed them, and that rock was Christ."

In the name chapter (verses 6, 11) we read that the representatives of the world are to be given lessons from literal events also found in I Cor. v, 6, and it is darkness to the light to shine out of their hearts. Glancing at the "Pastor's" message, the sequence of 45 to 48 is most beautiful and in accord with all Scripture, the marriage, the resurrection, the kingdom of peace, with a king over all the earth, and Mount Zion, the city of the great God, the city of the whole earth. Compare Rev. xxi to xxi.

Miss Millicent's Neighbor

How Curiosity Got The Better
Of Her

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Miss Millicent Elliott stood on her side porch and looked disapprovingly at the yard which adjoined her own trimly kept garden. It was a neglected, overgrown, with plants and daisies, while a forest of sunflowers concealed the tumble-down chicken house. Unpruned shrubs gave witness that some careful hand had once pinched a garden here and that sloth and indifference had let it run to decay.

The house, too, was shabby, with peeling paint and blinds sagging from rusty hinges. On the front porch there was a comfortable painted rocking chair, and sitting therein with his feet elevated to the porch railing was a large, shaggy looking man who was apparently reading the morning newspaper. As a matter of fact, his keen gray eyes were looking straight over the edge of his paper at Miss Millicent, and a wry smile was curving his lips, half concealed by a grizzled beard.

"Chiffins!" sniffed Miss Millicent as she went inside her immaculate little house, but her lips trembled as she uttered the word.

She stepped briskly to and fro making a chicken pie. Her kitchen was spotless, and she worked with a neat deftness that left no disorder in its wake. Presently a knock came at the door and was immediately followed by a stout woman who gave a checked snubnose over her glowing cheeks.

"My, but it's hot, Millicent!" she gasped as she sank pantingly into a chair by the open window.

"Florry was saying just this morning you oughtn't to keep your place looking so nice, Millicent."

Millicent turned her worst contented face to her caller. "Why not?" she asked calmly.

"Why, because it makes Captain Ben's place look all the worse!" cried over her strawberries! It was a queer little smile, mingled of triumph, bitterness and regret. Presently it was all regret, for she was thinking of that distant day when she had sent her handsome young Ben Perry about his business, and he had straightaway gone to sea and vowed he would never see her again. Millicent learned too late that the feelings she had nursed were coquetry was love and that the departure of Ben Perry was the turning point in her happiness.

Ben did not return to Little River. His people moved away to another village, and she heard indirectly that he was in command of a large accounts in the coasting trade. Then one day, six months before, it was announced that Captain Ben Perry had fallen heir to the little house next door to Millicent Elliott's and was expected home.

He did come three to live, and Millicent met him on the street the next day, and because her heart was beating so trippingly she ignored his attempt at greeting and passed him swiftly by with upturned chin.

Now he kept his time Little River conjectured whenever it met at post-office, sewing society or mothers' meeting. His whole careerless mode of housekeeping furnished ground for nine times nine days.

Just as Miss Millicent was concluding her solitary dinner the next day, she came upon her neighbor's shabby porch and stride down the overgrown path to the gate. A moment later he was coming out at least at the farthest corner of Captain Perry's domain.

Here was a break in the fence, and when she came forth she was scratched and bleeding and her neatly arranged hair hung in ripping disorder over her ears.

"Of all the chifflins!" gasped Millicent as she found her way up to the back porch of the house. It was written that she had hoped to find it and when she had lifted the door latch and found herself in the kitchen of the house she exclaimed with wonder at its shipshape appearance. The stove was brightly polished and every thing hung upon its appointed place. It was all as snug as the gallery of a ship.

The sitting room was cool and cozy, with an array of fragrant flowers. There were large comfortable chairs and piles of newspapers and books. On the mantelpiece a large clock ticked so loudly, and Millicent fancied that its round face watched her curiously.

She opened another door and stood startled with astonishment. Here was the little bedroom of the master of the house, and on the immaculate cover of his dressing table was an old-fashioned photograph of Millicent herself. After her first gasp of surprise she stood there motionless, her heart throbbing heavily, her eyes shining strangely.

All at once there was the clang of the closing gate and firm steps on the path. Captain Ben was returning. Millicent gazed wildly around and opened the door which she thought led into the kitchen to find herself at the foot of the back stairs. At the sound of steps on the porch she drew the door close and stood panting with fright.

The front door opened and closed, and Captain Ben came into the sitting room whistling cheerily. Millicent heard him slip a bundle of papers down on the table and heard the scratch of a match and the smell of tobacco. If he would only seek her front porch, as was his custom, and thus permit her to escape by the back way, but he did not. He settled himself in a creaking chair, and Millicent heard the rustle of his newspaper.

She glanced up the dark stairway. Once up there she might consult herself until Captain Ben went out again, when she might escape to her own domain.

She leaned forward and cautiously removed her little slippers; then, feeling like a thief, she crept up the stairs to the upper floor, which was quite bare of furniture. She heard Captain Ben arise and walk around the room. He even went into the unused east wing and tried a door there. Then he paused in the lower hall, as if he were pondering whether to go upstairs.

Did he suspect her presence there or the presence of an interloper on his premises? Had she left any telltale evidence of her visit below?

At last he went back into the sitting room, and she heard him whistling softly.

It was stifling hot upstairs, where the sun had poured all day through the unshuttered windows, and Millicent felt quite faint as she sat on the top step and leaned her head against the wall, while the thunder rolled and the lightning flashed sharply. Then came the rain in silver javelins that rattled on the roof of the east wing and drummed a tune against the window panes.

When the rain was over and the sun peeped brightly forth Captain Ben's voice came up the stairs with startling clearness.

"Why don't you come down, Millicent?" he asked quietly.

So he had known she was there all that time! Now he was aware that she had entered his house and pryed into his rooms just as a common gossip might have done.

"Millicent," he repeated softly, "I have waited long time for you. Won't you come to me now?"

And Millicent, struggling between love and pride and a sense of shame, went down the front stairs and into Captain Ben's waiting arms.

"Now you when you got caught in the briars," explained the captain softly. "I was coming back, and then I went on. I guessed you hadn't time to leave when I did come back, and I knew you were here, heard the seventh stair creak as you went up. I came back to find myself your neighbor and that you wouldn't speak, and I made up my mind to answer her for me. I thought maybe you'd stayed single because you didn't find any one you liked, and so you might as well like me."

"Why, I always have, Ben," whispered Millicent. "I couldn't like you any better—how, Ben?"

All the same to her.

"How sweet! How divine!" she panted, and she celebrated the occasion.

The violinist blushed a beautiful pink.

"Ah," he began, "I was merely—" "No, no, you needn't make any excuses, Mr. Fiddlin'!" she cried. "Heavily and truly not. I heard your magnificent playing as I came through the hallway just now, and oh, it was beautiful—beautiful!"

"Thank you, but—" "Now, no buts," please. I positively refuse to listen to them. That is the only thing I have against you great artist," she went on, tapping him playfully. "You are always apologizing for your wonderful work. Tell me what you were playing, Mr. Fiddlin'!"

It was the sweetest thing I have ever heard of. Was it one of your own compositions?"

"Er—well, perhaps," replied the musician, with a faint smile. "I was putting in a new string."—Answers.

THE SERENADE.

An Old Romantic Custom That Has Fallen Into Desuetude.

In reviving the serenade of the Philharmonic society to Miss. Nilsson I am reminded of a custom now fallen into disrepute, but which at the time I speak of (1870) was a favorite method of bestowing a marked compliment upon any one whom you wished particularly to honor.

The serenade was not only offered to visitors of distinction, but prevailed extensively as a delicate attention which you might pay to the lady of your choice. It was thought the proper thing at that period for a man to engage the best brass band he could afford and to proceed with it after midnight to the house of his preferred and then to stand beneath the windows while the musicians played their most sentimental and scintillating selections. It was not an uncommon sound even to hear a double quartet of male voices, with a French horn thrown in, singing beneath the windows of some favored dame, while paternalism or the butler made ready some light refreshment for the donors of this graceful compliment.

These romantic attentions have taken flight with the advent of electric lights, elevated railroads and other voices of the night, but even New York had a few hours of stillness after midnight and the night watchman sent an indignant ear to these revelers, who would doubtless be locked up as disturbers of the peace did they hazard such an enterprise under our modern regime.—Howard Hoffman's "Musical Recollections."

HE WAS THANKFUL.

But Still He Thought There Was a Little More He Might Get.

Old Simon, as we will call him, is quite a character in his way. He believes in asking for a thing until he gets it, and then, well, he is immediately in need of something else. He has lived on the same estate all his life, and until quite recently he was paying a merely nominal rent—11 a year—for the small cottage he occupied.

Simon, however, wasn't quite satisfied. Whenever he paid an installment of his rent he called the master's attention to the fact that this thing wanted doing and that thing, and so on, until he had got the master's going to the property. At length Simon's master decided on a bold move. The next time Simon turned up with the usual installment he was met by a suggested repulse the owner was prepared to meet him.

"Look here, Simon," he remarked, "I've been thinking the matter over, and in recognition of your long and faithful service I'm going to make you a free gift of the cottage you live in. From this moment it's yours to do as you like with. Now, what do you say to that?"

"Thank 'ee, sir—thank 'ee," returned the old fellow. "Ain't now, sir, what about that bit o' paint for the back door? Ye'll throw that in, o' course?"—London Answers.

Waterlogged Servants.

An Englishwoman traveling in Germany was struck by a strange glimpse of her own prejudices and tastes. "The Servians drink too much cold water, and they drink it till they are puffy. An average drink contains enough cold water for an English cow. I doubt whether the language contains an equivalent for 'dull training,' for when I tried to explain the idea it created surprise. A doctor told me to him never heard the theory before. He said it seemed a natural and wholesome habit. Moreover, he added, 'there is plenty; and seemed to think it was rather wonderful to explain its unavailability. To me it explained the lack of activity. The nation is waterlogged. All day long and every day the herb calls for a glass of cold water, and when he has drunk it he calls for another.' Perhaps owing to this he has little spare for alcohol. At any rate, I never saw a drunken man, even among the peasants."

Washington and the Artists.

Writing to a friend May 16, 1793, Washington thus described his experience with portrait painters: "I am so hackneyed to the touches of the painter's pencil that I am now a member of their society and sit like a patient on a monument while they are delineating the lines of my face. It is a proof among many others of what habit and custom can effect. At first I was as impatient of the request and as restive under the operation as a colt is of the saddle. The next time I submitted to their uncertainty, but with less flourishing. Now no day moves more readily to the thrill than it to the painter's chair."

The Ring in Denmark.

The maidens of Denmark never receive a diamond. They are always presented with plain gold bands, which is worn on the third finger of the left hand. On the wedding day the bridegroom changes the ring to the right third finger, which is the marriage finger in that country.

SIGNS AND HABITS OF HEALTH IN HORSES

Attitude—Stands with feet flat on ground, limbs placed evenly side by side, with equal bearing all weight on each. The horse occasionally "stands at ease" by resting the hind limbs alternately; the joints are partially flexed, the fetlock is knuckled, the feet raised and the toes rest lightly on the ground. The fore limbs are never so rested in health.

Rests at night against the day when undisturbed by lying down with the knees and hocks flexed and the body inclining slightly to one side. Rises by raising the forequarters first, then gathers the hind limbs under the body and springs to the upright position. Gait even and rhythmic movement of limbs and even distribution of weight.

Coat—Sheek, dark glossy and even (no burnous marks) when groomed; gray to the touch when not. Skin—Supple and loose to handle; clean and free from scurf when groomed; scurf when ungroomed. Pigeon's flesh in moist horses. Suitable warmth and sensibility to touch all over.

Ears—Mobile, alert, and evenly pricked. Eyes—Eyeball bright and glistening, without excess of moisture or tears; sensitive to touch or approach of flies. Pupils transparent, in shape oval or oblong, with rounded ends; sensitive to light contracting in a bright light and dilating in darkness. White of eye sclerotic, clear, blue, even white; not bloodshot or tinged with yellow or other color. Hair of the eye and conjunctiva fine and evident, carnation red and moist. Eyelids mobile and sensitive.

Lips—Mobile, dry, smooth, velvety and sensitive to the touch. Nostrils—Dry, except for an occasional drop of moisture below the rear door.

Mouth—Lining淡 pink color, moist and free from clamminess. Teeth—Incisors free from chipping or signs of wear, except on alpping surface; molars, even grinding surface.

The Belgian is one of the breeds of heavy draft horses that has proved its worth in the collar. The Belgians would seem to have many of the general characteristics of the Percherons, harring color, that there is not much room for comparison. The Belgians are a more temperamental breed than any of the other heavy breeds, and they seem to strike the general public so favorably because of their popularity. They are very drafty in appearance and mature early. It should be noted that the rather heavy appearance of the head, neck and shoulders detracts from their beauty and popularity. The stallion shown is a pure bred Belgian of fine conformation.

faces, free from jaggedness at edges and from decay. Gums—Upper bars level with teeth, soft and springy, but not tense, painful or swollen, except during teething. Tongues—Moist and free from furries.

Hocks—Shape, approaching the circular on the ground surface. The hind hocks are somewhat more erect. The natural angle at which the front of the hoot meets the ground at the toe is about 90 degrees. The hind hocks are 55 degrees in the hind feet, the latter being more upright and having usually lighter heels. Wall—The surface of the wall is smooth, even, clean and polished, free from cracks, ridges or unevenness of growth. Hoofs broad or narrow, strong and thick, to afford bearing surface for heel of shoe, frog broad, full and springy, free from moisture and foetid smell; should show signs of wear by contact with ground. Sole dry and fleshy; free from moisture; absence of softness and powdery texture. The hoof horn should be tough and gleaming, not flinty, brittle or "shelly." The off and near hoofs should be uniform in size and shape.

But Case Good Farm.

To the experienced breeder it might be surmised that there is a proper way of carrying a suit case. But to the veteran traveler, who has ridden many miles and others, it will seem strongly creditable. The suit case, when carried, should be held an inch away from one's clothes. Unless this is done the case, containing rubbing against the cloth, is sure to leave its mark of wear and tear.

SEEK THOSE MOTIVATIONS.

Mrs. Benson, the words fairly tumbling out of her eager lips. "Ain't it a distance the way he's come home and not lifted his finger to fix up the place?"

"Perhaps he isn't ready to do anything," evaded Millicent, picking over strawberries with slender brown fingers. Her dark lashes swept the smooth oval of her olive tinctured cheek, where a little flush came and went.

Mrs. Benson made a note of the flush, to tell her daughter that Millicent Elliott was not so indifferent to Captain Ben Perry's return as she appeared to be.

"He's waiting a good long time, why, he's been home six months. I guess he's got some business to do."

"What does he say about it?" "Captain Perry hasn't mentioned the subject to me," said Millicent calmly, as she went on with her cherries this time.

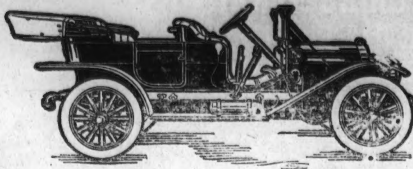

"Twenty-four quarts," said Mrs. Benson, with a baffled glance at the sugar woman. "I must be getting on now. I've got to get dinner. It sits me how the captain gets along now. He must eat something, I bet he seems to be sitting out on the porch most of the time, nobody said he sits down to the house."

"Does he?"

"How should I know?" asked Millicent rather crisply.

Mrs. Benson darted a keen glance at Miss Elliott's head. She opened the door that she might have a clear way for flight. "I ought maybe you ought to know something about his affairs, Millicent," said meaningly, and she slipped aside and banged the door shut.

In the kitchen Millicent was smiling

Murrin's mother, Mrs. McKay, returning on Monday morning.
Their many Crossfield friends will be sorry to learn that Mr. Murrin has suffered a severe attack of pneumonia since leaving here.

David Bros. received the entire plant for their electric lighting business on last Saturday, and at once set to work on the installation, and expect with good luck to have it running by Saturday or not later than the first of the next week. A good number of the business places have been wired, and it is expected that more will install the lights as soon as the plant is in working order.

Mrs. H. W. Curry, the milliner

Crossfield Quadrille Club Organized

A meeting of those interested in the organization of a Quadrille Club was held in the parlor over the Canadian Bank of Commerce on Monday evening, at which a good number of the young men were present. The meeting was called to order and Mr. Kennedy was elected to the Chair. The election of officers then followed; A. R. Thomas was elected President, Chas. Mc-Kay, Vice President, S. M. Ashwell, Secretary-Treasurer.

The following committees were then appointed:

H. McPherson, J. S. Martin and D.
G. Harvie, membership Committee,
H. J. Fagan, D. Ontkes and
J. F. Fraser, Floor managers,
Geo. Boyce, F. McKay and Clarkson, Music Committee.
Fagan, L. McKay and Chas.
Smart, refreshment and hall committee.

It was decided at this meeting that these dances would be held on a membership basis, and that no invitations would be sent out.

The dances will be held on first and third Friday of the month during the coming winter, and a very enjoyable winter will no doubt be the result.

COCKSHUTT

New Jewel
Gang

Built entirely of steel and made of iron, it has great STRENGTH. Removable, dust proof bearings, heavy shares and triple plate mouldboards give it great LASTING QUALITIES. Direct draft and the manner of carrying the side pressure on the furrow wheels make LIGHT DRAFT. The perfect foot lift, automatic steering connection and adjustment of furrow wheel make EASY HANDLING. The set of shares and shape of the mouldboards insure perfect work and make the COCKSHUTT NEW JEWEL the LEADER IN ITS CLASS. Call and look it over.
